

TRIBUTE TO AMINA RACHID

Amina Rachid was born in Rabat and started out acting on the stage and in radio plays. She has played over fifty roles in theatrical productions performed in Morocco and abroad, and has participated in over 3,000 radio dramas. Her contribution to the cinema has also been major; we've seen her in films such as Nabyl Lahlou's Ibrahim Yach, Cairo Street by Abdelkrim Derkaoui, Women's Wiles by Farida Benlyazid and Abdelmajid Rchich's The Life a Rose. She's worked twice with Mohamed Abderrahmane Tazi in Looking for my Wife's Husband (one of Morocco's biggest hits) and its sequel Lalla Hobbi, the most notable and popular and popular role of her career. Hakim Noury has cast her in the Dream Thief and A Woman's Fate, as well as she is Diabetic and Hypertensive and she refuses to die. She's also a leading actress on the small screen with over 600 appearances in televised films, dramatic productions and programmes. A first-rate actress, Amina Rachid is a grande dame of Moroccan Cinema.

- A la recherche du mari de ma femme by Mohamed Abderrahman Tazi
Morocco - 1994 - 1h28
- Lalla Hobbi by Mohamed Abderrahman Tazi
Morocco - 1997 - 1h49
- Elle est diabétique et hypertendue et elle refuse de crever
by Hakim Noury
Morocco - 2000 - 1h40